

News Election Hears Police Head Services Files a Protest

NEW YORK (AP) — The News Election Service has protested to Edward J. Barrett, the clerk of Cook County (Chicago), Ill., over his refusal to accredit NES representatives to polling places under his jurisdiction.

J. Richard Elmers, executive director of NES which compiles and reports nationwide election results, said in a letter Monday night that the refusal is "a disservice to the people of Illinois and all of the United States."

Elmers said the refusal was "all the more mystifying because you honored this same request for access to the polling places by news representatives in 1964 and 1968 elections."

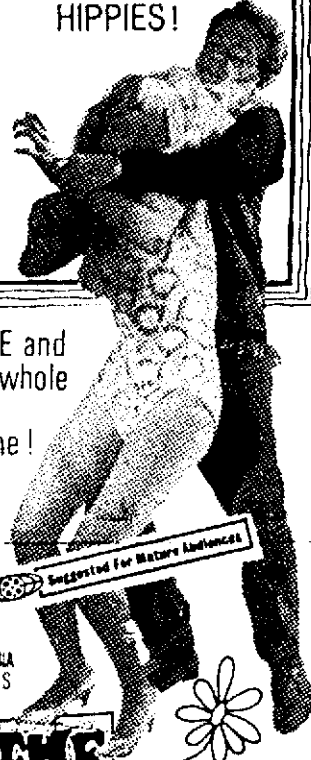

Among members of the NES are the American Broadcasting Co., The Associated Press, Columbia Broadcasting System, the National Broadcasting Co. and United Press International.

Colonel Ralph D. Scott was speaker at the regular Lions Club luncheon Monday at Town & Country. The Arkansas State Police Director spent the early part of his life at McCaskill, attended Prescott High School and received his AB degree from Hendrix College, a BCS from Southeastern in Washington, D.C.

He worked in the fingerprint department with the FBI in 1935 and served as agent for Detroit, New York, and Washington, D.C. He retired from the FBI in 1963 and became head of the Arkansas State Police in February this year.

He told the club about the new features of the State Police including six new specialists in criminal investigation available where needed. An auto theft desk is new. Over 800 autos are stolen annually in Arkansas and not all are recovered and many recovered are ruined.

There is now a computer tie with Washington, D. C. in which driver's records are on instant demand. Hope is soon to have a terminal with the State Police Headquarters on computer information. With these new developments a trooper can check out a suspect without ever leaving his patrol car.

A narcotics desk and an up to date, intensive identification file is also new. Guests were Sgt. Travis Ward, Lt. Guy Downing and Trooper Wallace Martin.

City Manager Garland Medders, Trooper Robert Neel, Mrs. Marshall Scott, Sally Andrews, Mrs. Jim Cobb, Capt. Milton Mosier, Mrs. Mosier and Deputy Sheriff Herbert Griffin.

Motel Beds Fine for Guards

NEW YORK (AP) — The commander of the 42nd Infantry Division of the New York National Guard decided Monday night against courts-martial for guardsmen accused of sleeping in motel beds rather than tents during a weekend of training.

"It was pretty evident there was no basis for a court-martial," said Maj. Edward P. McGrath, division information officer after Maj. Gen. Martin H. Foery, division commander, had reviewed the matter with his troop commanders and legal officers.

McGrath said an investigation had turned up no real proof that any guardsmen stayed in a motel during an Oct. 5-6 field exercise at Ft. Dix N.J. Twenty-four men had been stopped before they could leave the bivouac area and three had been seen returning to the base, he said.

The mill does not exist as a coin but for calculation purposes is valued at a 10th of a cent.

Democrats to Control Congress

By EDMOND LEBRETON Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats are favored to retain control today of a Congress that could face the longshot possibility of picking a president and vice president.

The three-way presidential contest has tightened enough to definitely increase the possibility today's balloting will be inconclusive in terms of electoral vote.

If this happens—although chances still are that it won't—and electors don't jump the traces, it will be up to the House, for the third time in history, to elect a president while the Senate picks a vice president.

But there are so many uncertainties that Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey can't be sure that even a Democratic controlled House would vote him into the White House.

Most surveys indicate Democrats might have a lead of 40 to 40 seats out of the 435. When Congress adjourned, with three vacancies, the Democrats led by 58. Republicans, however, insist they will control the new House.

But for presidential election purposes, what counts is control of state delegations in the House, since each state casts one vote, with 26 needed to elect.

So many congressional races are close and so many state delegations are narrowly divided that it is wholly possible neither party would control as many as 26 delegations.

One projection, on the basis of candidates apparently leading, would be 20 Democratic state delegations, 22 Republican and eight evenly divided and hence unable to cast a presidential vote.

To compound the uncertainties, many candidates have said they may not follow the party line in voting for president, but would favor the nominee with the greatest popular vote either in the whole country or their own state.

In the Senate, a GOP takeover is highly improbable. Of the 34 seats up for contest, 23 now are held by Democrats, 11 by Republicans.

Republicans need a net pickup

Wallace to Cast Vote in Home Town

By JULES LOH Associated Press Writer MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — George C. Wallace casts his vote today in his hometown of Clayton, Ala., the rural community where he began his remarkable political career.

Wallace will await the election of 14 to guarantee control of the Senate.

Democrats say the bombing halt in Vietnam—more of an issue in the foreign policy-oriented Senate than in the House—has strengthened their chances of holding any net Republican pickup to two.

Republicans talk in terms up to 15. But Democrats say they can take from two to five seats away from Republicans.

If the electoral vote is inconclusive, the Senate will elect the new vice president.

If the House is still deadlocked by Inauguration Day, Jan. 20, but the Senate has agreed on a vice president, he would take over as acting president.

tion returns in Montgomery. He has rented Garrett Coliseum, a sports arena, for his election night party.

He arrived in Montgomery Monday after a rally in Atlanta, the last of the campaign. He told the crowd of 6,000 to 7,000 persons both national parties had "used the South as a doormat the past 100 years," and said there was no evidence they had changed.

"They wouldn't spit on a Georgian except for your vote," Wallace shouted.

A group of about 200 Nixon backers showed up in mid-speech and paraded through the Wallace crowd with Nixon placards. A few hecklers also turned out and Wallace seized every opportunity to taunt them.

Wallace made a strong appeal for the votes of Southerners of both races.

"The people of all races," he said, "know that our nation is under attack, that our property system is under attack, that the free enterprise system is under attack, and that the Constitution of our country is under attack by the liberal left-wingers of both parties."

He also took pains to explain that although his running mate, Curtis E. LeMay, will not ap-

Just read an article on how to break the worry habit. Thought you might like it, too. Here are the four rules:

1. Crowd worry out of your mind by keeping busy.
2. Don't fuss about trifles. Don't permit little things to ruin your happiness.
3. Use the law of averages to out-law your worries. It has been proven that 90 per cent of the things we worry about never happen.
4. Cooperate with the inevitable. This last one we like the best because it applies to Fate's Style Shoppe. When you pass by our windows and get the feeling that you just have to come in, just say to yourself, "It is so. It cannot be otherwise." And we promise you that the worry of what-to-wear will fade like a summer's dream.

And, of course, we would like to help you with the selection. Our shop is packed with the smartest Fall clothes. You may choose a suit, dress or coordinating sportswear that will take you places. An all-weather coat is a must. Accessories are important and very new. There are loads of other things. Let us show you...the place is

BAD PAST WON'T STAY BURIED

Dear Helen: I'm a girl of 17 with a bad past. I've tried everything from glue to pot to pills, and I didn't stop at necking.

I thought my crowd was out of sight until I met Tony about 13 months ago. We had a long talk that was the changing point of my life. I told him all about myself and he said it didn't matter. I was really happy for the first time — until last week.

We were shopping for wedding rings when we met a fellow Tony hates. I don't know why he hates him so much but when he heard I went around with him, he reacted as never before and yelled, "It's all over!"

I never dated the guy but just rode behind him sometimes on his 'cycle.

I haven't seen Tony since and he hangs up when I call. Nobody will tell me what the feud is about.

Helen, if he forgave me for all the terrible things I did, why can't he understand about the one guy I didn't do anything terrible with? — P.H.

Dear P.: Only Tony can answer

THAT should keep him reading! — H.

Dear Helen: My parents are divorced and I live with my mother and seven brothers and sisters. We have strict rules at home: No yelling, no criticizing, no back talk. We aren't supposed to lift our voices, me most of all, because I'm the oldest.

Three weeks ago one of my brothers was quietly aggravating me. They're good at that! I told him politely to stop, and when he didn't I got mad and raised my voice a little. He kept on, and finally I yelled at him and called him a few names. Like a flash, I had the liquidish detergent squirted in my mouth. It burned and foamed and I sassed my mother back. Which made things a lot worse. I spent the evening in my room, smirking.

Ever since then my temper has been flaring off at everybody. I'm afraid I'll have no friends left if this keeps on, as I take it out on them because I'll really get it if I pop off at home. What has happened to me? — HELPLESS

Dear Helpless: Your mother's unrealistic rules built up so much pressure you exploded. You keep on boiling over because the pressure continues. And your friends get burned.

But I'll bet YOU are feeling better all the time! Soon you'll learn to regulate your steam valve — especially if you talk your problem over with a counselor or a few close friends. Perhaps you might even persuade your mother that rigid peace makes nervous, resentful kids. — H.

Dear Helen: I'm 18, and my mother still picks out my clothes. She must get them off the matron's rack as the skirts are below my knees. I can't shorten them! They make me the college off ball. If you don't agree I should tell her, I'll buy my own with my own money. Please don't print this. — M.H.

Dear M: I printed it. Start buying! — H.

HELEN HELP US!

BAD PAST WON'T STAY BURIED

Dear Helen: I'm a girl of 17 with a bad past. I've tried everything from glue to pot to pills, and I didn't stop at necking.

I thought my crowd was out of sight until I met Tony about 13 months ago. We had a long talk that was the changing point of my life. I told him all about myself and he said it didn't matter. I was really happy for the first time — until last week.

We were shopping for wedding rings when we met a fellow Tony hates. I don't know why he hates him so much but when he heard I went around with him, he reacted as never before and yelled, "It's all over!"

I never dated the guy but just rode behind him sometimes on his 'cycle.

I haven't seen Tony since and he hangs up when I call. Nobody will tell me what the feud is about.

Helen, if he forgave me for all the terrible things I did, why can't he understand about the one guy I didn't do anything terrible with? — P.H.

Dear P.: Only Tony can answer

THAT should keep him reading! — H.

Dear Helen: My parents are divorced and I live with my mother and seven brothers and sisters. We have strict rules at home: No yelling, no criticizing, no back talk. We aren't supposed to lift our voices, me most of all, because I'm the oldest.

Three weeks ago one of my brothers was quietly aggravating me. They're good at that! I told him politely to stop, and when he didn't I got mad and raised my voice a little. He kept on, and finally I yelled at him and called him a few names. Like a flash, I had the liquidish detergent squirted in my mouth. It burned and foamed and I sassed my mother back. Which made things a lot worse. I spent the evening in my room, smirking.

Ever since then my temper has been flaring off at everybody. I'm afraid I'll have no friends left if this keeps on, as I take it out on them because I'll really get it if I pop off at home. What has happened to me? — HELPLESS

Dear Helpless: Your mother's unrealistic rules built up so much pressure you exploded. You keep on boiling over because the pressure continues. And your friends get burned.

But I'll bet YOU are feeling better all the time! Soon you'll learn to regulate your steam valve — especially if you talk your problem over with a counselor or a few close friends. Perhaps you might even persuade your mother that rigid peace makes nervous, resentful kids. — H.

Dear Helen: I'm 18, and my mother still picks out my clothes. She must get them off the matron's rack as the skirts are below my knees. I can't shorten them! They make me the college off ball. If you don't agree I should tell her, I'll buy my own with my own money. Please don't print this. — M.H.

Dear M: I printed it. Start buying! — H.

Bobcats to Play Lincoln of Camden

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports writer

While everyone is concerned with voting and learning the results of the long political campaign, it's just another day for the Hope Bobcats to prepare for this Friday's opponent, the improving Camden Lincoln Tigers.

It is a 4-AA Western Division contest, the winner receiving a chance to beat Arkadelphia and finish third in the division. The actual 4-AA West race is shaping up to be a goodie, as the Malvern Leopards attempt to overthrow the rule of the Fairview Cardinals.

Malvern has a good chance to win it, as their only significant game remaining is with the same Fairview team. Malvern has come on strong in recent weeks, and they have not lost since September. Last week the Leopards tied a powerhouse Sheridan team 20-20, ruining the Yellowjackets' chance for a perfect season by moving them to 8-0-1.

This week Fairview plays the Arkadelphia Badgers, and the Cardinals should expect as tough a time as our Bobcats gave them. Two weeks ago the 6-2 Badgers lost a divisional game to Malvern 14-7, so this is actually their last chance.

Another factor working in Arkadelphia's favor is a better rested squad. The Cardinals lost their first game 13-0 to Magnolia last Friday, and got pretty well knocked up. Meanwhile Arkadelphia was taming Gurdon 35-6 in a walk, and the Badgers are recovered from the effects of consecutive losses to Magnolia and Malvern.

By the way, the 4-AA playoff between the two divisional night before Thanksgiving (November 25), but the site is not known.

Magnolia at 9-0 has the Eastern berth already secured, and they take a non-conference breather at Nashville this Friday. The Scrappers will be ready, though, for Magnolia was the only loss in Nashville's 11-1 record last season. Another item here is the fact that those same Scrappers will have to get up the very next week for the Hope game, while the Bobcats take on a somewhat lesser team in Camden Lincoln this week.

Most of the earlier-missed Bobcats were able to practice yesterday, but Carroll Beck is out indefinitely and David Still spent some time in the hospital over the latter part of the weekend for his illness, which stemmed from a severe cold and sore throat.

Camden Lincoln runs no fancy razzle-dazzle formations, actually lining up the Straight-T most of the time. Their only other slight variations are the Winged-I setup that Arkansas used so well before going to the pro-set this year, and a wide slot offense like Magnolia's.

The Tigers are very large through the middle, averaging around 180 pounds a man in the starting line. This figure includes one 150-pound end, so the rest is quite formidable.

On defense Lincoln runs out of a basic old wide-tackle-six alignment, but their front wall does plenty of stunting with the linebackers jumping in and out of the line of scrimmage.

Moving on to the Southwest Conference, the Texas Longhorns thrust themselves into the top spot by kicking SMU out of 38-7. A score of that proportion was nearly incredible because of the Ponies' great offense with Chuck Hixson, the nation's leading passer, throwing to Jerry Levias, the top receiver in the U.S.

To be sure, Hixson did complete a phenomenal 30 of 48 passes, which is 62.5 per cent or as good as the pros, but SMU can't

Hall High Knocked Out of Top Spot

By HARRY KING
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—There is no use asking Bill Stancil how he feels about his Fort Smith Northside Grizzlies regaining the top spot in the Associated Press Arkansas high school football poll.

His answer is predictable—It's an honor but the ratings don't mean much until the season is over.

Stancil disclaimed any credit for Northside's 13-7 victory over Little Rock Hall that vaulted the Grizzlies into the No. 1 spot. Hall had been ranked first, Northside second.

"Give it to the boys and give it to the coaches, Jim Rowland and Chuck Presley," he said. "They called the plays that won the game."

"The only thing I did was lead the invocation at the FCA (Fellowship of Christian Athletes) meeting before the game," he said.

"It was by far the best effort of the year for every boy on the team," said Stancil. "There were so many heroes you couldn't possibly name them all."

The Grizzlies relinquished the top spot in the poll about the middle of the season after a 3-3 tie with Pine Bluff.

"You can never tell what a tie may do for a team," he said. "I think it has helped us in our last few ball games. We beat a great team and we're humble about it."

Northside was a unanimous choice for No. 1 and Hall was second on all 11 ballots.

Russellville, unbeaten in nine games, but facing a major test Friday night against Little Rock Catholic moved up a notch to third. Hot Springs, ranked third last week, dropped to sixth after playing a 0-0 tie with Fayetteville.

Once-beaten Springdale jumped from sixth to fourth and Magnolia, which handed Camden Fairview its first loss, remained fifth.

Catholic remained seventh. Pine Bluff defeated North Little Rock and moved up a spot to eighth. Conway advanced a notch to ninth and Fairview fell from eighth to tenth.

Russellville, Bald Knob and Earle continue to lead the way in Class AA, A and B respectively.

Here are the results of the Associated Press Arkansas high school football poll, with first-place votes and team records in parentheses and total points at right:

1. FS N'side (11) (7-0-1) 110
2. LR Hall (7-1) 99
3. Russellville (9-0) 74
4. Springdale (7-1) 70
5. Magnolia (9-0) 64
6. Hot Springs (7-0-1) 55
7. LR Catholic (7-1) 46
8. Pine Bluff (5-1-2) 32
9. Conway (7-2) 27
10. Camden Fairview (7-1) 15

Others receiving votes, listed alphabetically: Dollarway, LR Mann, Newport and North Little Rock.

Class AA

1. Russellville (7) (9-0) 27
2. Magnolia (4) (9-0) 22
3. LR Catholic (7-1) 12

Others receiving votes, listed alphabetically: Camden Fairview, Conway and Newport.

Class A

1. Bald Knob (6) (8-1) 23
2. St. Anne's (1) (7-2) 17
3. Piggott (2) (9-0) 13

Others receiving votes, listed alphabetically: Alma (1), Dollarway, McGehee and Paris.

Class B

1. Earle (10) (9-0) 32
2. Holly Grove (6-1) 14
3. Parkin (6-2) 11

Others receiving votes, listed alphabetically: Gillett, Joiner, Shawnee, Mineral Springs and West Fork (1).

Broyles says sophomore tailback Bill Burnett will miss this week's game against Rice and that fullback Glen Hockersmith practiced at tailback Monday. "We're working Hockersmith at both tailback and fullback," Broyles said. "He'll be a swing man so we can use his talents more."

The Razorbacks practiced in sweat clothes for 90 minutes Monday. "I think we had a learning day to correct Saturday's mistakes," Broyles said.

Broyles said defensive end Tommy Dew would play in Saturday's homecoming game and defensive tackle Terry Don Phillips will try to participate.

Dew has had a knee injury. Phillips has a recurring back injury and Burnett has an injured big toe on his right foot.

Green Bay Long Way From Title

By BOB GREENE
Associated Press Sports Writer

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—A fourth consecutive National Football League championship still is the goal for the Green Bay Packers. Yet they seem to be going about it in an unusual manner.

"It looks as if we might lose our way into the Central Division title," a Packer said following Sunday's 13-10 loss to the Chicago Bears.

That defeat knocked the Packers out of a share of the division lead with a 4-1 record. But former co-leader Detroit also lost.

Now Chicago and Minnesota are tied for first. But both have four defeats to go along with four victories.

Although it's still anybody's race, Packers' Coach Phil Bengtson sees a hard road ahead for his team with only six games left in the regular season.

"We have to win them all," Bengtson said. "And the other people have to lose some."

That might not be so easy. The Packers have to play, in order, Minnesota, New Orleans, Washington, San Francisco, Baltimore and Chicago.

The Minnesota Vikings have the toughest schedule, facing the Packers, Detroit, Baltimore, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Philadelphia.

Chicago meets San Francisco, Atlanta, Dallas, New Orleans, Los Angeles and Green Bay, while Detroit goes against Baltimore, Minnesota, New Orleans, Philadelphia, Atlanta and Washington.

The Packers could tie either Chicago or Minnesota and still have a shot at the crown.

But a final deadline with Detroit would send the Lions to the playoffs. In case of a tie, under league rules, the team that scored the most points in their two-game series would get the nod. Detroit downed the Packers in their first meeting and fought to a tie in the rematch.

Hurt by numerous injuries to their defensive linemen this season, the Packers also have suffered from poor field goal kicking. It's a problem that Bengtson and his staff are trying desperately to solve.

"We had a big discussion on that," Bengtson said, referring to three missed field goals in the Chicago game. "We're definitely going to have to do something."

"We haven't given up on Erroll Mann," Bengtson said of the latest placekicker, who was added to the squad only last week. "But we haven't decided about next week."

A Super Scout Expounds on Expansion

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

Casey Stengel knows all about expansion in baseball because he remembers being somewhat embarrassed when he first took over the New York Mets in 1962.

"The way it (the expansion draft) was handled this time is better for everyone," Stengel began over the phone from his Glendale, Calif., hacienda. "They'll be better off two ways."

"I know every one of them (the new managers at Montreal, San Diego, Kansas City and Seattle). Not only did everyone have a fair chance to get some talent but there will not be a standout team in the divisions of the leagues they are in."

"I'm amazed at some of the prices the players brought. The first time they went for expansion the new teams had to pay for the players and you couldn't get what you wanted. This time there was more talent available."

"They (baseball) didn't have to fill up the rosters of new clubs and humiliate a team or a city."

"That fellow at Montreal (John McHale) is a good man. He was good at Detroit, then Milwaukee and then Atlanta. He's a first class operator."

Naturally, Stengel would prefer to talk about Montreal and San Diego because they are in the National League and Casey still scouts for the Mets.

"Bavasi down here in San Diego is a high class operator." Stengel went on in talking about Buzzie Bavasi who is running things in lower California. "He

Arkansas 14th in Grid Poll

Southern California and Ohio State had close calls Saturday but the Trojans suffered most in The Associated Press weekly college football poll.

They didn't lose their No. 1 national ranking but their number of first-place votes dropped from 24 to 19 and their lead over the second-ranked Buckeyes shrank from 64 points to a mere 13.

Southern California needed a touchdown pass with 1:13 remaining to squeeze past stubborn Oregon 20-13. The Trojans piled up 816 points in the balloting by 45 sports writers and broadcasters.

Ohio State tallied 14 first-place votes and 803 points after holding off Michigan State, No. 17 in this week's poll, 25-20.

Kansas retained third place with 10 first-place votes and 758 points. The other first-place ballots went to fourth-ranked Penn State with 588 points and No. 5 Tennessee with 541. There was no change in the top six teams as Purdue pulled 415 points.

In Saturday's games, Kansas beat Colorado 27-14, Penn State edged Army 28-24, Tennessee walloped UCLA 28-18 and Purdue thrashed Illinois 65-17.

Georgia, seventh a week ago, dropped to ninth after tying 13th-ranked Houston 10-10 and California fell from eighth to 11th following a 7-7 deadlock with Washington.

Michigan moved up from ninth to seventh via a 35-0 rout of Northwestern, and Missouri climbed from 10th to eighth after belting Oklahoma State 27-7. Texas took over the 10th spot following a 38-7 drubbing of Southern Methodist.

California barely led the Second Ten by nine points over Notre Dame, which clobbered Navy 45-14.

After Houston in 13th place came Arkansas, 25-22 winner over Texas A&M; Oregon State, which whipped Stanford 29-7; unbeaten Ohio University, 34-27 winner over Western Michigan; Michigan State; Auburn, which upset Florida 24-13; Wyoming, which romped past Colorado State U. 48-14, and Louisiana State.

The Tigers managed to stay in the Top Twenty despite a 27-24 loss to Mississippi.

Hixon Still Leads Even in Defeat

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

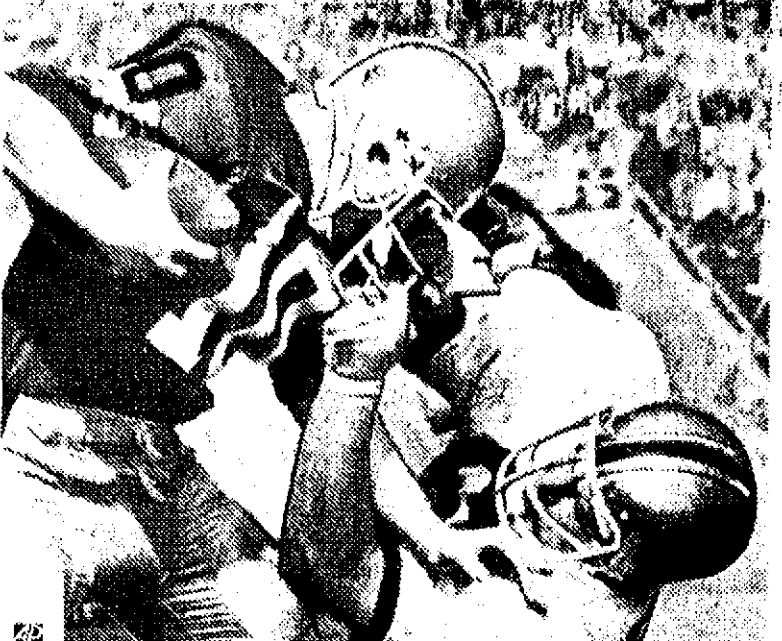

Even in defeat, SMU's flashy sophomore quarterback Chuck Hixson continues his apparent attempt to make the Southwest Conference football record book his autobiography.

The Mustangs suffered their first conference loss to Texas Saturday, but Hixson, the nation's leading passer, continued his statistical assault by setting league season records for completions (195), yardage (2,217) and attempted passes (341).

Hixson required only seven games to establish the record previously held by Baylor's Don Trull and Terry Southall. Trull had the records for 174 completions and 2,157 yards and Southall had the most attempts at 328.

Texas A&M's Edd Hargett also got in on the passing show by establishing a conference career record of 4,454 yards in 667 attempts.

Hargett has thrown 33 touchdown passes, which moves him into second place among all-time SWC passers. TCU's Sammy Baugh is first with 38.

SMU's Jerry Levias caught six passes against Texas to increase his total to 61 for the season, the best in the nation. Levias needs nine more receptions to equal Baylor's Lawrence Elkins who holds the SWC season record of 70 catches.

Texas' Chris Gilbert, already the league's most prolific ground gainer, added 145 yards to his total against the Mustangs. That gives him 775 yards rushing this season and a career total of 2,874 yards—16th best among the nation's all-time top rushers.

Texas replaced SMU as the total offensive leader with an average of 419.7 yards per game average to 414.6 yards for the Ponies.

Texas Tech retained its total defense lead, with a 303.9 yards per game average.

Stengel then got back to the New York Mets, the only expansion team ever owned by a woman, Mrs. Charles S. Payson.

"Mrs. Payson has put in a first class training center (in St. Petersburg, Fla.) and it has five fine ball parks, some of which are better than the big league parks I first played in."

"This lady has done more than anyone who ever was connected with baseball. She has put a lot into it and got good advice. Without a lady like her we might never have had expansion in baseball."

Monroe Still Best Point Producer

NEW YORK (AP) — Baltimore's Earl Monroe remains the National Basketball Association's top point-producer, but Los Angeles' Elgin Baylor has replaced Dave Bing of Detroit as the top per-game shooter.

Monroe, last season's rookie of the year, had scored 300 points in 11 games through Sunday for a 27.3 average, according to league statistics released today.

Baylor had 249 points in eight games for a 31.1 mark, while Bing, last year's scoring king, had 247 in eight games for a 30.9 average.

Bill Russell, Boston's playing coach, held a big lead in rebounding with 199 in eight games for a 24.9 average.

Wilt Chamberlain of Los Angeles remained the top floor shooter with 81 of 119 tries for a .681 percentage. New York's Walt Frazier has converted 31 of 34 free throw attempts for .912.

Mikita, Hull Share Hockey Scoring Lead

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita, the Chicago Black Hawks' dynamic scoring duo, share the National Hockey League individual point lead today after three full weeks of seasonplay.

Hull, the NHL goal-scoring king for the past three years, has collected nine goals and as many assists in nine games for a total of 18 points, according to official league figures released today.

Mikita, bidding for his third consecutive point championship, has scored five goals and set up 13 in one more game than his teammate.

Bob Nevin of the New York Rangers trails the co-leaders by one point and leads the goal-scorers with 10 in 10 games.

Jim Pappin of the Black Hawks is fourth with 15 points, followed by veterans Jean Beliveau of Montreal and Gordie Howe of Detroit with 14 apiece.

Royalty in Old Car Race

Prince Rainier and Princess Grace of Monaco have driven a 1903 De Dion Bouton automobile from London to Brighton in an annual run for old cars.

About 250 cars took part Sunday in the "old crocks" run which commemorates the lifting of the 3-m.p.h. speed limit for horseless carriages in 1896.

Prince Rainier drove the whole 50 miles, but the princess retreated to a closed car for part of the route.

"I found it very cold," she said, "I suppose I cheated a little bit."

Hijacker Also Took Money of Passengers

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Airline passengers back from Cuba today said the man who hijacked their plane seized their money as "contraband of war."

They got it back from Cuban officials when the plane landed at Jose Marti airport outside Havana.

Morris Bedlin, a Miami Beach, Fla., taxi driver, said the Negro hijacker announced "You've got a new captain" when he took over the Boeing 727 jet with 57 other passengers and seven crew members aboard.

Bedlin said the hijacker announced over the public address system that the jet seizure was part of a black nationalist movement.

"He said: 'we're going to take over a new ship every day for 100 days,'" Bedlin told newsmen.

M. R. Garrison, a Vernon, Tex., oilman now living in Rome, Italy, said the hijacker said the black nationalists were taking the action for "a new Africa."

"He said they would take one a day for 100 days and that this was the first one. He was a kook!" Garrison said.

Bedlin said the man asserted black nationalists intend to hijack commercial lines "to show the white people that we're keeping them down, or something like that."

Pilot Antonio Hunter said the hijacker—waving a revolver with a six-inch barrel—ordered stewardess Sandy O'Brien to collect money from the passengers.

"He made her count the money on the floor," after Miss O'Brien returned to the cockpit, the captain said. It totaled $405.

Robert Seely of Dallas, Tex., said: "He acted completely crazy. He said he was taking up the money as contraband and of war. Other passengers confirmed the remark."

A National Air Lines spokesman said the passenger listed on the manifest as "Mr. H. Jackson" of Baton Rouge, La., was not on the list of returning passengers. Federal Bureau of Investigation agents questioned the crew and passengers, but declined to discuss Jackson or any other aspect of the case.

Hunter said the hijacker held a gun at Miss O'Brien's head and forced her to unlock the cockpit door about 10 minutes out of New Orleans on National Flight 186 from Houston to Miami via New Orleans.

Miss O'Brien said the hijacker boarded the plane wearing a

102 Lost in Italian Floodwaters

VERCELLI, Italy (AP) — The skies cleared over northern Italy today after 84 hours of rain, and waters began receding in a triangle of death and ruin along the south slopes of the Alps.

Floods and landslides took at least 102 lives there and other persons were missing.

blue blazer and "looked very nice," she said he changed in a restroom, however, to emerge wearing black slacks, black shoes, black shirt, black beret, black leather jacket and dark glasses.

Off the Cuban coast, Hunter said, two Cuban jet fighters flew alongside the airliner.

The hijacker was whisked away quickly after landing in Cuba. The airliner was released and the crew returned it to Miami Monday evening.

Cuban officials, Hunter said, told him "safety and security" would not permit it to take off loaded. The passengers were bused to Veradero, a two hour ride away, and a four-engine propeller driven plane chartered by the U.S. State Department flew there to pick them up.

"The worst seems to be over," said an official of Vercelli province, in the hardest hit region between Milan and Turin. "The water is receding and colder weather in the Alps has checked the runoff."

But as the northern tributaries emptied floodwaters into the Po, Italy's greatest river, officials went on the alert for new dangers in that river's basin. Low-lying areas were ordered evacuated as a precautionary measure.

Emergency crews worked to reopen roads in the flood zone. Some villages still were isolated. The Milan-Turin main railway line was restored and so was the international rail line through the Simplon Pass between Italy and Switzerland.

Damage to the industrially rich province of Vercelli, which also is a major rice producer, was estimated at more than $16 million.

In Biella, at the foot of the Alps, some 80 of the city's 120 textile mills were wrecked; thousands were jobless and many were homeless also.

'Major' Change

NEW YORK—(NEA)—It is fact that next spring professional baseball will be 100 years old. It is only conjecture that professional baseball is also 100 years behind the times. It may not be for long. Professional baseball appears to be crawling into the 20th century. An organization called the Major League Baseball Promotion Corporation attests to this enlightenment.

For the first time, all major league baseball teams are working together as a single entity. Before, each league and each team went its separate way.

The 24 team owners and the two league presidents make up the organization whose purpose is to keep Americans aware that baseball is still the national pastime, and hasn't been replaced by football or hockey or Scrabble or wrestling in the back seat of a convertible.

"Baseball has come to realize," said Yankee president Mike Burke, chairman of the corporation's executive committee, "that it must promote the game on a national basis. The baseball owners sensed a general need to do this, especially since the growth of other sports, spectator as well as participant."

Burke was asked whether the drop in attendance this season had anything to do with that realization.

"Hell, no," he said. "This is not a defensive action. We don't feel anything snapping at our heels. But like any person or business, we're always trying to improve our lot."

What will the Major League Baseball Promotion Corporation do? At first, in typical fashion, it didn't do anything. The corporation came into being in December, 1966. One of its first actions, when the wheels finally began to spin, was to hire the services of Batten, Barton, Durstine and Osborn, Inc., a widely known public relations firm. The account is being handled by Tom Villante, a one-time Yankee bat boy, as it turns out.

What will Tom Villante do?

"I will try to increase awareness of the game, motivate and develop new fans, and maybe even bridge the generation gap," he said. "A kid goes to his first game because his father takes him. What I'd like to do is rekindle nostalgia, let them remember what they once shared in common. Maybe that could be the beginning of mutual understanding."

Villante's major project is to make a deal with four major advertisers—from soft drink to automobile—and combine to promote the game (and the company's product) in all the media. He is close to consummation with four advertisers now.

He has also planned a spring television special and an All-Star game special. "These are not just previews," he emphasizes, "but spectaculars. And during the World Series we'd like to do a spectacular like 'The World Series as Seen Through the Eyes of Bob Gibson.'"

There will be baseball caravans with nostalgic and historic mementos traveling the nation year-round, sometimes with current and former players aboard. There will also be national contests running in high school and college newspapers, hoping to excite those groups which have all but forsaken baseball. And a plan is underway to have school teachers bring baseball into the classroom. A baseball cartoon series for kids will soon appear on television, too.

"Baseball owners have been known as somewhat conservative," said Burke. "But I think we're loosening up a bit."

After 100 years, they are taking off their high collars and trying on button-downs. Somehow it just doesn't seem to fit.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Medical Care Costs Continue Their Rise

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

In these times of creeping inflation, many persons are complaining about the cost of medical care. Let's take a minute to examine the facts and the reasons for the increases. In 1940, a complete medical workup (initial history, physical examination and simple laboratory tests) by your doctor cost $25. A surgeon charged about $500 for a major operation that required an average of eight days in the hospital and the loss of three or four weeks from work.

Today the charge for an initial workup is still $25. The preoperative care, operative technique and postoperative care have improved to the point where, although the same operation that formerly cost $500 now costs about $525, only three days in the hospital and a week away from work are required.

Although the doctor's living expenses, office rent and equipment now cost him far more than they did 28 years ago and although the stamps to mail out his bills cost twice what they cost 10 years ago, he has absorbed these costs and has raised his fees, if at all, far less than any other group.

Why, then are medical costs rising? One reason is that technological advances in the broad field of medicine are expensive. A $75,000 apparatus that costs $25,000 to install can detect a tumor the size of a pea. Without this equipment it would not be diagnosed until it had become as large as a lemon. Granted this test is costly, it is also lifesaving and represents greatly improved service to you as a patient.

The other chief reason for increased costs has to do with hospital care. Hospitals are usually nonprofit organizations and can't absorb increases in their operating costs—they must be passed on to you or the hospital must close its doors. Medicare was introduced to help relieve this burden on persons who are over 65. Persons who are not yet eligible for Medicare should avail themselves of one of the voluntary health insurance plans that are offered.

Q—What is meant by hypercholesterolemia and hypothyroidism?

A—Hypercholesterolemia is an abnormally high blood level of cholesterol. Hypothyroidism is a deficiency of thyroid secretion.

mind that three in a major or four in a minor will now give you game.

The advantage of a 4-4 fit in a suit is enough so that the Stayman Convention is in general expert use to find this fit in a major suit after a no-trump opening, but under normal conditions you prefer three no-trump to five-odd in a minor with one of those 4-4 fits.

With 20 on score it becomes common sense to look for minor-suit games since you only need 10 tricks.

South's three-club call represented a common-sense effort to do just that. He had a normal no-trump opening with only 16 high card points, which included three aces and a king. He wanted to go on after his partner raised him to two. At the same time he was looking at a 3-4-2 hand pattern and instead of bidding three no-trump, he bid three clubs to suggest a club instead of no-trump contract.

North raised to four clubs and South had no trouble making that contract. He simply timed his play so that he could make a total of six tricks with his trumps. He won the spade lead and played ace and one heart. Later he was able to trump his other two hearts in dummy.

The best South can do at no-trump is to make eight tricks. Of course, the defense might slip and give him a ninth, but it is better to have a sure thing going for you.

Q—Why does the English word "pound" refer to both a unit of money and a unit of weight?

A—In England the value of money was originally determined by its weight. Hence the word "pound" refers to both.

Q—How many states were carved out of the Northwest Territory?

A—Five complete states—Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin—and part of Minnesota east of the Mississippi River.

Republican Governors May Up Lead

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans, who have steadily increased their share of the nation's governorships in the last four elections, stand a good chance of widening the 26 to 24 margin they now hold over the Democrats.

Governors will be elected in 21 states. Democrats hold 13 of those seats, Republicans only eight.

Democrats in seven states are losing the usual advantage of having an incumbent governor standing for re-election. Two of the seven are stepping down for personal reasons and three are barred by state law from succeeding themselves.

The lone Republican incumbent not running, Gov. Nils A. Boe of South Dakota, also is in the can't-run-again category.

In 1959-60, at the end of the Eisenhower administration, there were only 14 Republican governors—down from 30 in 1953-54. In the 29 states where there are no races for governor this year, the office is held in 11 by Democrats and in 18 by Republicans.

Several Democratic governors stepping out have national reputations. Harold E. Hughes of Iowa is running for the Senate. John Connally of Texas is going into private law practice after three terms. Philip H. Hoff of Vermont is stepping down for personal reasons after serving three two-year terms.

In New Hampshire, John King is running for the Senate. Roger D. Branigin of Indiana, Dan Moore of North Carolina and Hulett C. Smith can't run again.

States that are electing governors today for four year terms are Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Montana, North Carolina, Utah, Washington and West Virginia. Governors are being elected for two year terms in Arizona, Arkansas, Iowa, Kansas, New Hampshire, New Mexico, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Texas, Vermont and Wisconsin.

In Arkansas, Winthrop Rockefeller seeks a second term as the state's first Republican governor since Reconstruction. And in Kansas, Democrat Robert Docking also is running for a second term in a traditionally Republican state where the only Democrat repeating as governor was his father, George Docking.

Republican Gov. Jack Williams of Arizona has as his opponent for a second term the man he ousted in 1966, Democrat Sam Goldard, who charges Williams' tax reforms favor big corporations.

In Delaware, Republican Russell W. Peterson said he would end the "fear and failure" that led Democratic Gov. Charles L. Terry to send National Guardsmen to quell rioting in Wilmington last April.

In Illinois, Democratic Gov. Samuel H. Shapiro and GOP opponent Richard B. Ogilvie vie over who can best maintain law and order, while both oppose a state income tax.

Hostility to taxes is also a feature of Indiana's Republican Campaign between Secretary of State Edgar D. Whitcomb and Democratic Lt. Gov. Robert L. Rock.

The Iowa GOP candidate, Robert D. Ray, charged in his campaign against Democratic State Treasurer Paul Franzburg, that Democrats were spending the state into the red. Franzburg denied it.

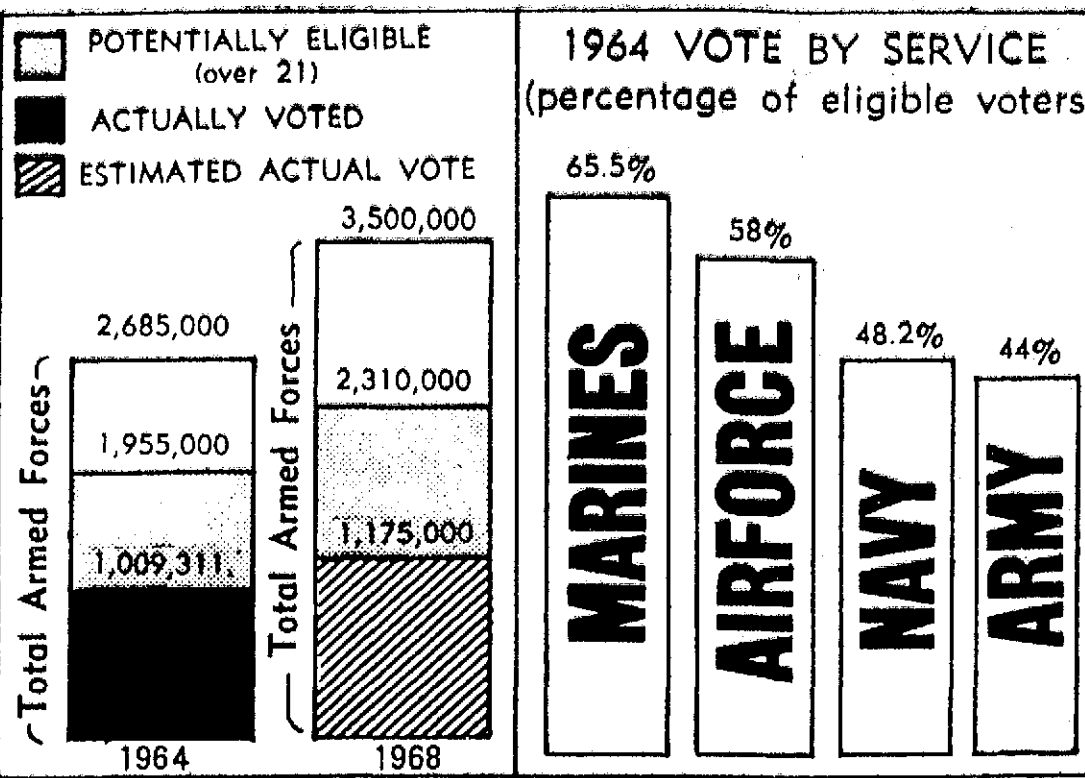

Democratic Gov. Robert Docking and GOP opponent Rick Harman in Kansas accused each other of favoring higher taxes.

Montana's Democratic candidate, Atty. Gen. Forrest H. Anderson, campaigned against GOP Gov. Tim Babcock's proposed 3 per cent sales tax.

In Missouri, Democratic Gov. Warren E. Hearnes boasted of improving education, attracting new industry and other programs, while Republican Lawrence K. Roos said the state still needs to catch up in those areas.

Both Democrat Emil R. Bussiere and Republican Walter R. Peterson opposed higher taxes in New Hampshire. Bussiere said he would veto any state income or sales taxes enacted by the GOP-controlled legislature,

THE MILITARY VOTE

Men in uniform should cast well over a million votes in the 1968 election if they vote in the same percentage as in 1964. Four years ago, 51.3 per cent of all servicemen 21 and older filed absentee ballots. Among the services, the Marines showed the greatest political interest in 1964 with 65.5 per cent of eligibles actually voting.

but Peterson refused to make such a promise.

The bid of Democrat Fabian Chavez to become New Mexico's first Spanish-name governor gave an ethnic tone to his effort to unseat GOP Gov. David F. Cargo.

Republican U.S. Rep. Jim Gardner attacked long-time Democratic control of North Carolina's statehouse in opposing Lt. Gov. Bob Scott.

Republican Robert P. McCarney argued in opposing North Dakota's Democratic Gov. William L. Guy that the state needs a governor of the same party as the GOP-controlled legislature.

Republican Gov. John Chafee of Rhode Island defended his administration against Democrat Frank Lincoln.

In South Dakota, Democrat Robert Chamberlin proposed a state income tax to finance education while Republican Frank Farrar first opposed such a tax then dropped the issue.

Paul Eggers argued for a two-party state in seeking to become the first Republican governor of Texas since 1869 in his bid against Democratic Lt. Gov. Preston Smith.

Republican Carl Beuhner, trying to unseat Utah's Democratic Gov. Calvin Rampton, criticized Rampton's record on anticrime measures.

It's mostly a party-line fight in Vermont between Republican Dean C. Davis and Democratic Lt. Gov. John J. Daley.

Washington's GOP Gov. Dan Evans advocates a single-rate state income tax, while Democratic opponent John J. O'Connell urges a graduated tax.

Republican U.S. Rep. Arch Moore and Democrat James M. Sprouse argued mainly over party line issues in their campaign for the West Virginia governorship.

In Wisconsin, GOP Gov. Warren P. Knowles has depended mainly on his record in trying to fend off the bid of Democrat Bronson C. La Follette, who criticizes high property taxes.

Nixon Sees Hanoi Using Bomb Halt

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Richard M. Nixon triggered an unusual election eve campaign joust with Hubert H. Humphrey by reporting Hanoi may be taking advantage of the Vietnam bombing halt.

Appearing on a $400,000 network telethon Monday night, the Republican presidential candidate said:

"I read a very disturbing report this afternoon in which an Air Force general pointed out that the North Vietnamese are moving thousands of tons of Nix-supplies down the Ho Chi Minh Trail and that our bombers are not able to stop it."

Humphrey was simultaneously conducting a telethon of his own here—and the Democratic presidential candidate quickly answered a question about Nixon's remarks.

Humphrey accused Nixon of trying to "frighten the American people" and said "it is a totally irresponsible charge."

The vice president said he checked with U.S. government officials who said the Nixon statement was not true.

"It's a totally unsubstantiated charge," he went on. "Now, Mr. Nixon, I think you know very well that the President's orders to stop the bombing of the North did not include the Ho Chi Minh Trail. The Ho Chi Minh Trail is subject to intensive American air power as it has been in the past and is even more so now, and that all the lines of communication south of the demilitarized zone are all subject to intensive air interception or interdiction."

The trail goes through Laos to South Vietnam and bombing of it continues, the U.S. Command in Saigon reported.

Before his long session before the TV cameras ended, Nixon was asked about Humphrey's reply to the Ho Chi Minh Trail statement.

"If they don't know what's going on," Nixon said. "How can they deal with it? At least I know what was going on. That's why I can deal with it."

The Republican candidate did not elaborate on the report he cited but a press aide, Ron Ziegler, said that Nixon referred to news reports attributed to U.S. military sources in Saigon.

From Los Angeles, Nixon goes to New York City today for what his aides said would be a "victory celebration" at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

Just as Humphrey got a question about what Nixon said on the GOP telethon, the Republicid Air Force general pointed out that the North Vietnamese are moving thousands of tons of Nix-supplies down the Ho Chi Minh Trail and that our bombers are unemployment because of the need to combat inflation.

When asked about this, Nixon contended that a Humphrey economist had made such a statement and added, referring to his Democratic rival, "Boy, he really is getting confused."

Questions asked of Nixon during his four-hour telethon over the NBC network were phoned from all parts of the nation to 100 telephone operators in the TV studio. After being screened, they were read to Nixon by former Oklahoma football coach Bud Wilkinson.

Most of the candidates' replies mirrored his public statements during the campaign. But he was perhaps sharper than usual in hitting at Humphrey.

Accusing the Democratic campaigners of saying little or nothing about major issues, Nixon said:

"They've attacked me personally. They say I can't be trusted. They have just engaged in personal attacks. I don't think that's worthy of anybody who is going to be president of the United States."

Nixon said that "to show you how really low they got," he quoted Humphrey as having said there's a one-in-three chance that the next president will not live out his four-year term.

Declaring this a horrible thought to express, Nixon went on with a vigorous defense of his vice presidential running mate, Spiro T. Agnew, saying that should he inherit the White House he would be "a strong compassionate man."

Nixon also hit at Humphrey's running mate, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, for having said when asked about draft card burners that anyone choosing to break the law in such fashion should be willing to face the penalty.

The Republican candidate said he and Agnew wouldn't "talk any of this nonsense."

Vietnam figured repeatedly in questions relayed to Nixon.

Contending that prospective peace talks "came apart at the seams" a few days ago, Nixon said the bomb halt did not stop Communist shelling of cities in the South nor the flow of military supplies from the North. Asserting that President Johnson had relented, in preparing for the halt, on "a team of men who are tired," Nixon said:

Tuesday, November 5, 1968

"This pause would have been better prepared had we had a fresh team in there."

He said that if there's no peace before Inauguration Day, "I'll bring in a new diplomatic team and we will end this war."

The political impact of the bomb halt, a matter of much concern in the Nixon camp in recent days, was dealt with in a statement by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower that was read to TV viewers by his grandson, David Eisenhower.

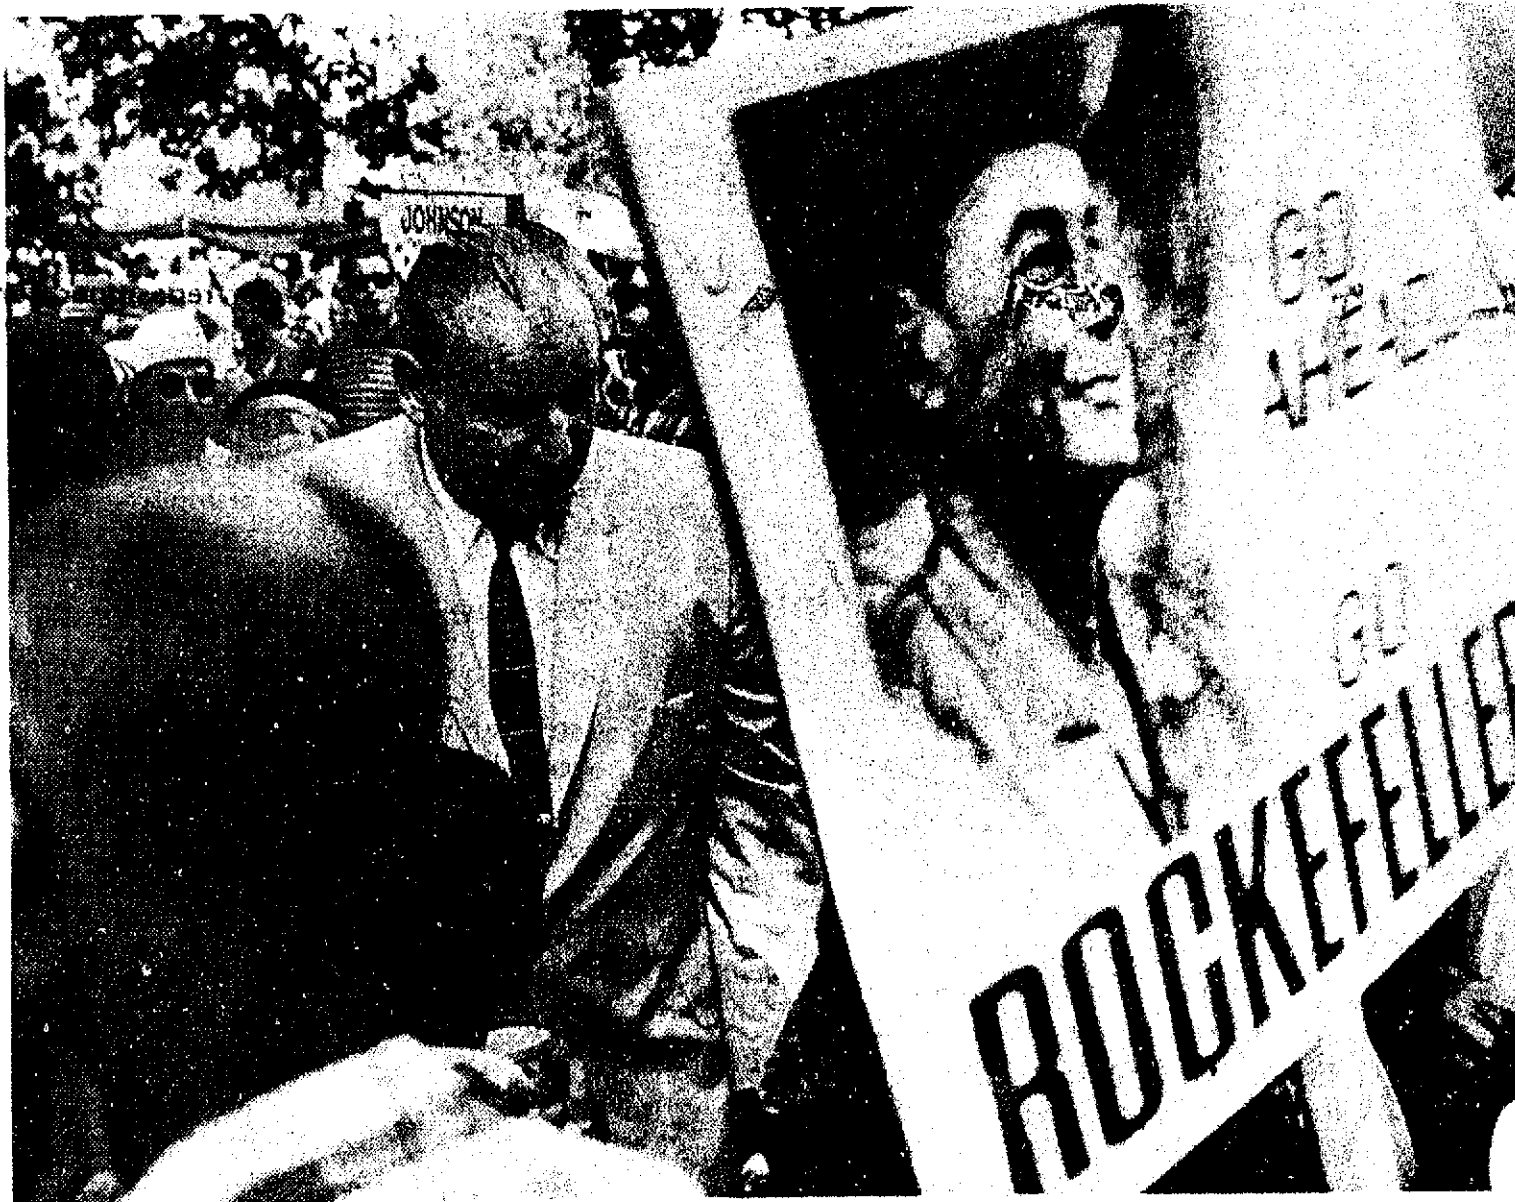

Eisenhower said late public opinion polls "suggest to me that the American people may have been swayed" by the halt. He applauded Nixon for "extraordinary responsible conduct of his campaign respecting Vietnam," and said: "...adversities that have developed in the President's program since the bombing halt was announced have suggested to many people that the President acted hastily, perhaps seeking to influence the election. But again Mr. Nixon withheld criticism. I suggest that this statesmanlike conduct warrants national commendation."

Speeders Are Stripped

JAKARTA (AP) — Indonesian police and troops stripped 50 young speeders to their underwear, marched them through the streets and threw them into a fountain.

The youngsters, nicknamed "hell drivers" for their flagrant speeding along the city boulevards, were caught at police roadblocks.

They were released without being charged but their cars and motor bikes were impounded for a day.

Public Notice

A new Federal law requires you to register your possession of certain firearms, unless such firearms have already been registered with the Director, Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division, Internal Revenue Service, as being in your possession. This registration must be done during the period of November 2 through December 1, 1968. Severe penalties could result from your failure to register such firearms.

Department of the Treasury / Internal Revenue Service

Firearms which must be registered

- All firearms need not be registered. Only the following firearms must be registered:
- (1) A shotgun having a barrel or barrels of less than 18 inches in length,
 - (2) A weapon made from a shotgun if it has an overall length of less than 26 inches or a barrel or barrels of less than 18 inches in length,
 - (3) A rifle having a barrel or barrels of less than 16 inches in length,
 - (4) A weapon made from a rifle, if it has an overall length of less than 26 inches, or a barrel or barrels of less than 16 inches in length,
 - (5) Any other weapon as defined in this notice,
 - (6) A machine gun as defined in this notice,
 - (7) A muffler or silencer for any firearm,
 - (8) A destructive device as defined in this notice.

Where firearm is to be registered

Your possession of a firearm covered by this notice must be registered with the Director, Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division, Internal Revenue Service, Washington, D.C. 20224.

How to register a firearm

Firearms are registered by filing Form

4467, "Registration of Certain Firearms During November, 1968", in duplicate, with the Director, Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division. Forms for this purpose may be obtained at the Internal Revenue Service Office serving your area. This registration must be done before December 2, 1968.

Penalty and immunity

It is unlawful to possess an unregistered firearm of the type covered by this notice. Violations are punishable by fines up to $10,000, imprisonment up to 10 years, or both. Civil penalties or forfeiture of property also could be incurred. The statute which requires you to register your firearm also provides that any information or evidence you must submit or retain in relation to such registration within the 30 day period specified herein cannot be used against you in any criminal proceeding connected with a prior or concurrent violation of law. However the statute does not preclude the use of any such information or evidence in a prosecution or other action under any applicable provision of law with respect to the furnishing of false information.

Definitions

The term "any other weapon" as used in item (5) of this notice means: (a) any weapon or device, other than a pistol or revolver, having a rifled bore or bores, from which a shot is discharged through the energy of an explosive and which is capable of being concealed on the person; (b) a pistol or revolver having a barrel with a smooth bore designed or redesigned to fire fixed shotgun ammunition; or (c) a weapon with combination shotgun and rifle barrels 12 inches or more, but less than 18 inches, in length from which only a single discharge can be made from either barrel without manual reloading.

The term "machine gun" as used in item (6) of this notice means any weapon which shoots, is designed to shoot, or can be readily restored to shoot automatically more than one shot, without manual reloading, by a single function of the trigger. The term also includes the frame or receiver of any such weapon, any combination of parts designed and intended for use in converting a weapon into a machine gun, and any combination of parts from which a machine gun can be assembled if such parts are in the possession or under the control of a person. (The term includes "unservicable" machine guns as well as machine guns previously determined to be "DEWATS".)

The term "destructive device" as used in item (8) of this notice means: (1) any explosive incendiary or poison gas (A) bomb, (B) grenade, (C) rocket having a propellant charge of more than four ounces, (D) missile having an explosive or incendiary charge of more than one-quarter ounce, (E) mine, or (F) similar device; (2) any type of weapon which will, or which may be readily converted to, expel a projectile by the action of an explosive or other propellant the barrel or barrels of which have a bore of more than one-half inch in diameter except a shotgun or shotgun shell which the Secretary of the Treasury or his delegate finds is generally recognized as particularly suitable for sporting purposes; and (3) any combination of parts designed or intended for use in converting any device into a destructive device as defined in (1) or (2) and from which a destructive device may be readily assembled.

The term destructive device does not include (a) any device which is not designed or redesigned for use as a weapon; (b) any device, although originally designed as a weapon, which is redesigned for use as a signaling, pyrotechnic, line throwing, safety, or similar device; or (c) any surplus ordnance sold, loaned, or given by the Secretary of the Army pursuant to the provisions of section 4684 (2), 4685, or 4686 of Title 10, United States Code; or (d) any other device which the Secretary

V-President Ends Drive With Charge

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The last parade was over, the last television broadcast had ended, the last hands had been shaken. And Hubert H. Humphrey headed home to Marysville, Minn., today to vote—then wait to learn how the rest of America had voted.

The vice president ended his campaign Monday night with a 4-hour appearance on live, nationwide television.

It cost the Democrats $300,000 to take Humphrey to the people—two hours in each half of the country.

Humphrey cheered by huge turnouts during a downtown Los Angeles motorcade and a opinion poll that showed him ahead, wound up the campaign by accusing Richard M. Nixon of making a "totally irresponsible charge" and trying to "frighten the American people."

Nixon, the Republican nominee, told a national television audience earlier that he "read a very disturbing report this afternoon in which an Air Force general pointed out that the North Vietnamese are moving thousands of tons of supplies down the Ho Chi Minh Trail and that our bombers are not able to stop it."

Nixon and Humphrey appeared simultaneously in Los Angeles—but on different networks and from studios across the nation. Asked about Nixon's statement, Humphrey said:

"It's a totally unsubstantiated charge. Now, Mr. Nixon, I think you know very well that the President's orders to stop the bombing of the North did not include the Ho Chi Minh Trail... the Ho Chi Minh is subject to intensive American air power as it has been in the past and is even more so now, and that all lines of communication South are all subject to intensive air interception or interdiction."

The trail, still subject to U.S. bombing, goes through Laos to South Vietnam.

Humphrey addressed his comments to Nixon in the second person, mocking the fact that Nixon had refused to join him in a televised debate.

"We have to be willing to take some risks for peace, Mr. Nixon, just as we're willing to take risks on the battlefield... what you and I should be doing is asking the government of South Vietnam to attend that conference in Paris and examine our President, and not in any way spreading misinformation that would upset the American people," he said.

Tens of thousands jammed the streets of downtown Los Angeles to greet Humphrey.

of the Treasury or his delegate finds is not likely to be used as a weapon or is an antique or is a rifle which the owner intends to use solely for sporting purposes.

The term "firearm" does not include an antique firearm or any device (other than a machine gun or destructive device) which, although designed as a weapon, the Secretary of the Treasury or his delegate finds is primarily a collector's item and is not likely to be used as a weapon.

The term "antique firearm" means: (a) any firearm not designed or redesigned for using rim fire or conventional center fire ignition with fixed ammunition and manufactured in or before 1898 (including any matchlock, flintlock, percussion cap, or similar early type of ignition system or replica thereof, whether actually manufactured before or after the year 1898); and (b) any firearm using fixed ammunition manufactured in or before 1898, for which ammunition is no longer manufactured in the United States and which is not readily available in ordinary channels of commercial trade.

Has to Keep Home From Being Ruined

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — To be called from the bathtub to answer the door is bad enough, but it's worse if you have to go out and keep your home from being knocked down.

Mrs. Rayfield Scroggins says she was taking a bath last Thursday when "I heard that huge crane move in." She jumped from the tub, put on clothes and went to ask the crane operator what was happening.

"He told me our place was on his list to be demolished," she said. "He also told me he didn't have a lot of time to talk to over since there were about 80 houses in our area on his list for demolition."

The homes are to be leveled for a low-cost housing project. But an authority spokesman admitted later that Mrs. Scroggins' home was one of about 25 owned by persons who have not agreed to sale terms.

She wasn't satisfied when the authority agreed to leave her home alone for now. She complained that no one "even bothered to apologize."

There would be 41 days for bargaining or changes of mind.

On Dec. 16, the electors meet in their respective state capitals to vote. The outcome presumably will be known almost immediately, although the official ballots are not tabulated until Jan. 6 at a joint session of Congress. There is no provision for a second electoral college ballot if no majority is reached on the first.

However, a leading law expert, Harvard Prof. Paul Freund, said Monday that a 90-year-old law might prevent switching of positions among electors.

He said that the 1878 law places in Congress "the final say whether to honor an electoral vote cast for a candidate other than the candidate of his party."

If the Electoral College deadlocks, the House of Representatives would immediately ballot to pick a president. Each state delegation would get one vote and 26 votes would be required to elect a president.

The fact that one party holds a majority of the 435-member House is no guarantee its seats would be distributed within the states so as to guarantee the 26 votes. Additionally, at least 85 candidates with a good chance of election have said they would vote for the popular vote winner in their district, state or the nation rather than necessarily for their party's nominee.

Paralleling this procedure would be selection of a vice president. If the electoral college could not produce 270 votes for Spiro T. Agnew, Edmund S. Muskie or Curtis E. LeMay, the Senate would have to pick the vice president.

But while the House would ballot among the top three finishers in the electoral college presidential balloting, the Senate would be allowed to select only between the top two in vice presidential voting.

If the House were deadlocked over the presidency at noon, Jan. 20—Inauguration Day—the vice president-elect would become acting president until the deadlock is resolved.

If the Senate also were deadlocked, the speaker of the House would become acting president after resigning as speaker and as a member of Congress. Next to him in succession would be the president pro tem of the Senate.

The House twice has selected the president following electoral college deadlocks.

It picked Thomas Jefferson in 1801 over Aaron Burr, who was then made vice president.

In 1825, the House elected John Quincy Adams over Andrew Jackson and William Crawford, although Jackson led in both the popular vote and in the Electoral College balloting.

the final Louis Harris poll released Monday.

The poll gave Humphrey a 43 to 40 edge over Nixon. This was the first time he has led during the campaign in which he once trailed by eight points in the Harris poll and 15 in the Gallup poll. Gallup's final poll over the weekend had it 42 to 40 for Nixon.

Wallace, the phenomenon that threw pollsters and political experts far off their stride was given between 12 and 13 per cent of the vote in the final polls.

Despite their last minute predictions, the major pollsters, mindful of Harry S. Truman's 1948 upset of Thomas Dewey, said the election was too close to call.

Nixon however, remained confident that he would rack up a popular vote margin of three to five million votes.

John N. Mitchell, Nixon's campaign manager, said this meant that the Republican candidate would get more than enough electoral votes.

John N. Mitchell, Nixon's campaign manager, said this meant that the Republican candidate would get more than enough electoral votes.

Lawrence F. O'Brien, Humphrey's campaign manager, expressed firm belief that "we're going to achieve an electoral majority" in the balloting. This was a little further than Humphrey himself had been willing to go in predictions.

nee George C. Wallace in Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Ohio.

The keys to many of the big states are their big cities where the size of the Negro turnout could be crucial. The Negro vote is considered heavily pro-Humphrey.

Both candidates have placed heavy stress on the seven large states of New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, California and Texas, with a combined total of 210 electoral votes.

Nixon carried only Ohio and California in his 1960 loss to John F. Kennedy.

Recent surveys have shown Nixon leading in Ohio, Illinois and California, with the other four considered close.

Wallace also holds the key to a number of Southern and border states which Nixon hopes to win.

Thus, if Wallace looks like a winner in Kentucky, Florida and the two Carolinas—in addition to his basic strength in such Deep South states as Louisiana, Alabama and Mississippi—Nixon will need some of those big Eastern and Middle Western states.

Those with money to burn have it because they don't.

There was a mild disturbance at The Star Monday afternoon. A customer called for a back copy of the edition for Tuesday, Oct. 29, because he missed the sample ballot we ran on that day. But when we went to get him one from the office file the ballot wasn't in our copy. We checked Monday and Wednesday, Oct. 28 and 30, thinking our memory was faulty. Not finding the ballot we returned to the file for the 29th. It was labeled as a 4-page paper and we began counting the pages. The sheet marked Pages 7 and 8—cartoons on Page 7 and the ballot on Page 8—was missing. . . In every copy in the file.

The organization got into high gear. We learned that the original file for the 29th had been sold out and replaced with extra left over in the mail-room. Someone had gone through 30 of these and stripped them of the ballot sheet, and it was this stripped batch that had been put in the file.

We finally dug up enough whole copies for the file, took care of the customer—and destroyed the stripped copies.

We are still investigating—the loss of $3 in saleable papers being the least of it. Theft of sample ballots printed in a newspaper always gives rise to the suspicion that some stupid person might be aiming to use them for the genuine article. Which is why a newspaper prints SAMPLE in bold type over every specimen ballot. Attempting to use such a sample at the polling place would seem to be incredible—but you never know.

But whoever did strip the issue of Oct. 29 convicted himself of being stupid. Never jerk a single sheet out of a newspaper—just take the whole paper. A whole paper might not be missed—but a file of 30 papers with the same sheet missing in all of them is damning evidence, and always detected.

Eventually we'll get to the bottom of this. The organization feels it has been infiltrated from the public alley just outside the mail-room door.

If, like the editor, you're a mechanical buff, you'll find "Automobiles of America," a paperback encyclopedia of motor car history issued by the Automobile Manufacturers Association, Inc., absolutely fascinating.

I'll refer to this from time to time, starting today with these excerpts:

The first patent on an automobile was granted George Baldwin Selden in 1879.

The first manufacturing firm for gasoline cars was the Duryea Motor Wagon Company, formed in 1895 by Charles E. and J. Frank Duryea.

The first automobile race, sponsored by the Chicago Times-Herald in 1895, was won by a Duryea Motor Wagon with an average speed of 7½ miles per hour. Only two of the six starters finished the race.

The first steam car was built in 1897 by Francis and Freeman Stanley, and in 1906 a Stanley steamer set a world's record of 127.66 miles per hour.

The White Steamer came along in 1900, built by three brothers, Windsor, Rollin, and Walter White.

The White Steamer disappeared but the Stanley lasted for years.

I recall the organization of Doble Steam Motors in 1920, but this encyclopedia tells me something I didn't know—its founder, Almer Doble, a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology who put together his first machine in 1940, actually built 80 Doble Steamers.

It was the last bid for the supremacy of steam—only to die like the White and the Stanley. But even this encyclopedia published by a 100-per-cent gasoline-diesel-powered industry pays tribute to the pioneers of steam.

Says Saigon Must Be in Peace Talks

By LEWIS GULICK
Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP) — The first scheduled peace talks since the bombing halt in Vietnam, due Wednesday, were postponed today because of the absence of a delegation from the Saigon government.

Embarrassed by President Nguyen Van Thieu's continued refusal to send a delegation to the talks, the Americans were considering a postponement of Wednesday's conference session at which the Viet Cong and Saigon delegations were to have made their debut or a downgrading to confine it to a procedural discussion.

Secret talks were under way between U.S. diplomats and North Vietnamese in Paris, and between the U.S. government and Saigon as the Americans sought to avoid launching the new phase of the Paris meetings with a prestige boost for the Viet Cong. So far about just what procedure should be followed for the expanded meetings. But there was considerable expectation that haggling over procedure could go on for quite some time before the participants get down to hard bargaining on the basic war-and-peace issues.

President Johnson in announcing his Oct. 31 bomb-halt package aimed at a major push forward for the Paris sessions said the presence of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front on North Vietnam's side of the table in no way involves recognition of the NLF. But Saigon's leaders contend otherwise.

Brings 3 Dimensional Form to Whimsies of Life on Drawing Board

NEW YORK (AP) — Rowland Emmett, a slender fair-haired man with a British accent, a vivid imagination, an impish grin and an even more impish sense of humor, not only creates outrageous contraptions on his drawing board, but brings these impossible whimsies to life in working three-dimensional form.

He is the first to admit that his zany inventions have no practical value. "They're all glorious failures," he said, "and that's the fun. Their primary purpose is to make people laugh."

And people have been laughing with the ingenious native of London ever since his drawings began appearing in Punch, Britain's weekly humor magazine, during World War II. His cartoons pictured a mad railway system, the Far-Tottering to Oyster Creek Branch Railway that satirized all the problems of the British railway system.

For the Festival of Britain in 1951 he was asked by the government to design his system to be built full-size to carry people around the exposition. He came up with actual reproductions of his Wild Goose, the flying engine; Neptune, which didn't

No Clear-Cut Winner Will Bring Behind the Scenes Maneuvers

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Campaign oratory is likely to give way to behind-the-scenes maneuvering on one or perhaps two levels if today's election fails to produce a clear-cut Electoral College winner.

There has been no agreement among the three presidential candidates about what should be done if one of them fails to get the needed 270 electoral votes.

Republican Richard M. Nixon has challenged Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey to agree in advance to support the popular vote winner if the election goes to the House.

Humphrey said he has always favored direct popular election of the president—which would require a constitutional amendment.

Until one can be passed, he has said he stands behind the constitutional procedure that provides for election by the House if no candidate wins a majority in the Electoral College.

George C. Wallace says the matter will never go to the House but will be settled, if necessary, by the electors themselves who meet and vote Dec. 16 in their respective states.

The maneuvering, however, that is likely to occur will involve first the Electoral College itself whose 538 members won't vote until Dec. 16. It will take 270 electoral votes—a simple majority—for a presidential

Heavy Damage in Four Car Pileup Here

In the 200 block of North Hervey St. yesterday three cars stopped for traffic and a fourth vehicle hit them from behind causing damage to four vehicles.

Officer Reid Clark said cars driven by Guy H. Ahern Jr., Hope 4, Ruth Love and Donald M. Sanders, both of Washington were stopped. The fourth car, driven by Wayne Bohannon, Hope, hit them from behind, ramming all together. There was heavy damage to the three back cars and slight damage to the front vehicle.

Bohannon was charged with following too close.

On North Elm St. cars driven by Mrs. Paul Dudeney of Washington and Mrs. Henry Fowler of Hope collided with minor damage resulting, according to City Officer Martin.

The trains were a huge success and Emmett was inundated with requests to build "enormous bits of three-dimensional nonsense, and that's all I've been doing ever since."

His latest are the gadgets and gimmicks he created for the forthcoming musical film, "Chitty Chitty Bang Bang," starring Dick Van Dyke as Caractacus Potts, an inventor Emmett claims is "about as dotty as I am."

Some of the oddball thingamajigs are a comical haircutting device, a wild washing machine, a mad mechanism that automatically prepares, cooks and delivers eggs and sausages for breakfast, and the Visivision Picture Snatcher, for snatching pictures and words from the air.

Emmett and his associates have produced on the average of one machine a year since 1951. Each takes seven or eight months to complete and all parts move constantly and are electrically. They are constructed of every material known to man and some things unknown to his wife, such as an antique mirror he spirited away from their cottage in Sussex.

candidate to win.

The next target of maneuvering would be the New House of Representatives, which will inherit the task of picking a president if the Electoral College can't do it.

When the public votes tonight, it expresses its presidential preference but actually picks states of electors in each state.

The states of candidates for elector have said which presidential nominee they favor. The slate supporting the nominee who wins the most popular votes in each state gets to cast all that state's electoral votes.

If Richard M. Nixon, Hubert H. Humphrey or George C. Wallace wins in states with 270 or more electoral votes, the electoral college proceedings are a formality.

But if there is no immediate apparent majority after the popular voting the dickering can begin.

In only 16 states and the District of Columbia are the electors actually pledged to follow their state's popular vote. Wallace's electors in many states

Many States Vote on Acts, Amendments

By MALCOLM BARR
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Californians can grant themselves tax cuts, New Hampshire may give up the right to declare war, and Tuesday is a day of decision in semi-dry Utah where a liquor-by-the-drink question is on the ballot.

Two other states, Hawaii and Nebraska, decide whether to lower the voting age, while Washington state votes on whether traffic policemen should administer breath and blood tests to drinking drivers.

These and hundreds of other questions will be settled by Americans in about three-fourths of the states with local proposals on the election ballot. New Jersey voters will decide whether to float that state's biggest bond issue in history—$990 million—to pay for low income housing, education facilities and public transportation.

That's not as big as a money issue in Illinois, where a decision must be made on a $1 billion proposal for water and air pollution control, development of water resources, and a water-recreation program.

Virginians, who have never before borrowed money to finance public projects, will decide on an $81 million bond issue for education and mental hospitals.

In California, homeowners can vote themselves property assessment exemptions which would mean paying $70 less a year in taxes. There's a proposal, too, to eliminate the personal property tax, and an opportunity to double the standard deduction on the state's income tax.

Since 1784, New Hampshire's governor has had the right to declare war independent of the U.S. Congress. He can "pursue (the enemy) by force of arms, as well as by sea as by land, within and without the limits of this state."

Big Turnout of Voters in Arkansas

By ED SHEARER

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas voters appeared to be turning out in large numbers today to cast ballots in a general election which finds Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., and Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller facing stiff opposition.

Spot checks in Little Rock, Fort Smith, Jonesboro and Fayetteville indicated voting to be heavy while El Dorado had a turnout above average and rising.

A number of precincts in Little Rock reported long lines of voters at 9 a.m., just one hour after the polls opened. The polls close at 7:30 p.m.

Cloudy to partly cloudy skies and cool to mild temperatures were reported throughout the state. There was a 20 per cent chance of rain at Texarkana during the day and rain was in the forecast for other sections tonight and Wednesday.

A check at several voting precincts about noon today indicated a record turnout in Hope and Hempstead county. There were long lines at practically all polling places. This is due partly to the lengthy ballot but much is attributed to the wet-dry vote as well as hotly contested state and national races. There are 8,970 persons qualified to vote in the county.

political life for about six months, dating back to the Democratic primary when he outpolled three foes following a bitterly-fought campaign.

The chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee opposes Charles T. Bernard, a Republican from Earle who conducted a vigorous campaign.

Rockefeller, first GOP governor of Arkansas since Reconstruction, is trying for a second term. He meets Marion H. Crank, a veteran state legislator who has managed to heal many of the wounds that split the state Democrats two years ago, enabling Rockefeller to win by about 50,000 votes.

Election eye reports of national polls showing Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey in the lead could boost the Arkansas vote total to as high as 625,000.

Arkansans will give their six electoral votes for president to Humphrey, Republican Richard M. Nixon or third party candidate George C. Wallace.

Most observers rate Wallace as the favorite in the state but Humphrey's supporters claim the vice president has taken the lead and will win by about

Figures and Facts About Election

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Facts on Tuesday's elections: Offices to be filled include those of president, vice president, 21 governors, all members of the House of Representatives, more than a third of the Senate.

The major party candidates for president and vice president: Democrats—Hubert H. Humphrey and Edmund S. Muskie; Republican—Richard M. Nixon and Spiro T. Agnew; American Independents—George C. Wallace and Curtis E. LeMay.

The 21 governorships to be filled now are held by 13 Democrats and 8 Republicans. Counting the 29 states not electing governors this year, Republicans now hold a 28-24 edge in statehouse control.

The 34 Senate seats to be filled now are held by 23 Democrats and 11 Republicans. The Democrats currently control the Senate, 63 to 37.

All seats in the House, which the Democrats now control 245 to 187 with 3 vacancies, are to be filled. Estimated vote: close to 73 million.

Presidential Vote Is Most Unpredictable in at Least Two Decades

Vote in 3 States Key to Outcome

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A key to the outcome of the presidential election could come from the results of three early reporting states—New York, Connecticut and Massachusetts.

A victory in any two of these early reporting three states would mean almost certain victory for Republican Richard M. Nixon.

Even if Hubert H. Humphrey captured all three states, however, it would not mean a certain Democratic victory.

But a strong showing in the three states—which account for 65 of the 270 electoral votes needed to win—would be a hint Democrats might survive an expected strong Nixon tide in the less populous states of the West.

Defeat of Democratic Sens. Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut and Joseph S. Clark of Pennsylvania would be a bad sign for Humphrey.

Nixon would be in trouble if Democrats retain House seats held by Reps. Donald J. Irwin of Connecticut and John G. Dow of New York.

Victory by Democrat Allard K. Lowenstein in New York City would be another favorable omen for Democrats.

Dwight D. Eisenhower's 1956 landslide re-election triumph began when he captured early reporting Connecticut.

This year, Humphrey could be seriously damaged by possible defections of blue collar union members to third party nomi-

ELECTION DAY
The 1968 presidential race, confused by the presence of a major third candidate and clouded by the Vietnam war and domestic disorders, ends, with a possibility that the final decision may be made in Congress.

Key states: A clue to the election outcome could come from Connecticut, New York and Massachusetts.

If it's close: Behind-the-scenes maneuvering is likely to come in the event the election fails to produce an electoral college winner.

Governorships: The Republicans have a good chance of increasing their hold on the nation's statehouses.

Referenda: Californians can grant themselves tax cuts, New Hampshire may give up the right to declare war.

Congress: It may not happen but it could be up to the House to pick the president while the Senate elects a vice president.

Polls: The major public opinion surveys are split as a last-minute Harris check finds Hubert H. Humphrey leading Richard M. Nixon in a close race.

Early returns: One New Hampshire hamlet splits its vote for the first time, going 8 to 4 for Humphrey. Another gives Nixon an 11-vote sweep.

Weather Is Favorable Election Day

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Favorable weather is expected to last long enough today to offer Arkansans no excuse for not voting but scattered thunderstorms and showers are expected in the state tonight and Wednesday.

A low pressure system deepening in Texas is expected to cause the increased precipitation. Cold weather is expected in the state by Wednesday as a Canadian front moves southward.

No rainfall was reported in Arkansas in the 24-hour period that ended at 6:30 a.m. today.

Low temperatures reported around the state this morning ranged from 34 degrees at Fayetteville to 52 at Little Rock and Pine Bluff.

High temperatures reported around the state Monday ranged from 55 at El Dorado to 65 at Fort Smith.
